ANOTHER TRIAL RACE.

Wind and weather favoring, to-day is to witness another trial race of the cup-defenders.

Good luck be with them.

Are they mere toys and playthings, useless for real work; these thin leeks and centre boards, over-spurred and balloon-rigged?

Perhaps they are, but they turn out a pretty good style of man.

Are they mere duds and swells, these gold-skipped skippers?

Well, such a one as they are lowered the pride of Britain's sea craftiness forty years ago, when the Cup was won.

Such as they were the gallant captains and sturdy sailors who, twenty odd years ago, drove through the storm and the darkness for thirteen days and nights with less scuppernaws afloat in that little trans-oceanic race, when the Henrietta won and the Fleetwing and the Vesta were not without honor.

Such as they are the dear little Annapolis cadets, not one of whom was ever known to flinch or falter in the path of Duty or in the face of Death.

The sea is ever the mother of brave men: The rough kisses from the lips of her waves are sweet and strengthening. Courage and manliness and honor are the traits of those who sleep near to her bosom.

To sail a ship is an education in manhood.

So let all good wishes fill the sails of the cup-defenders, and let all good Americans hope that the winner of the trial races may force England to come again before we part with the Cup.

THE WORK BEFORE CONGRESS.

What is Congress trying to do?

It is trying to repeal the Silver Purchase Bill.

It is trying to repeal the statute taxing State bank circulation.

It is trying to get a monetary commission to devise a thorough and rational plan of meeting the country's financial requirements.

In other words, Congress is not engaged in devising new laws, but in getting rid of old laws. It is not legislating, but undoing legislation. It is not enacting, but repealing. It must tear down before it can build up. It must destroy before it can create.

In a word, it must get rid of Republicans both work before it can do anything for the relief of the people.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS.

Seldom has New York been called on to welcome guests more worthy of honor than those French labor representatives who arrived yesterday.

They were received quietly yet impressively by a delegation of their American fellow-workmen. They should receive such public recognition and official courtesy as will truly represent the attitude of the people of New York towards the genuine representatives of the French working classes.

These industrious citizens of a friendly Republic are more distinguished visitors than many rajahs or dukes. They are more valuable members of society. They have a more valid claim on our respect and attention.

They have come to see us for the purpose of learning many things. They begin by teaching us an impressive lesson. The official positions held by so many of them teach us that France is a democratic Republic, in which labor has a share in the actual work of government.

TWO UPPE HOUSES.

The British House of Lords has shown its utter unfitness for the law-making function by its treatment of the Home Rule bill.

Its summary rejection of a measure approved by the Commons and by the people has called down merited condemnation. In all probability its action marks the beginning of the end of the era.

But its offense is much less odious than the conduct of our Senate in obstructing the will of the people on the subject of repeal.

The House of Lords has been doing that sort of thing for five hundred years. It has acted according to the laws of its being.

Our Senate represents nothing if it does not represent the will of the people. In obstructing repeal it is acting against the laws of its being.

Moreover, the purblind peers were merciful. They killed the Home Rule bill by their votes. They did not talk it to death.

Is it possible that the American Senate is worse than the British House of Lords?

ONE LITTLE GIRL IN BLUE.

A young woman in blue, who didn't know anything about thoroughbred-equine thoroughbreds, of course picked a winner at Sheephead Bay, the other day. And it was a 15 to 1 shot, too. The bet she put on the horse was small, but it is easy to see that if she had bet a house and lot on the event at the odds given, she would have carried a fortune home.

You have read this kind of a story before. It's as old as the time of the trite. The person who wins at the race-track is usually a person who knows nothing about horsefowl, and the lucky one invariably has only a small bet on when a fortune could have been gathered in with a bet of larger dimensions.

The knowing ones are nearly always wrong. Let their tips alone. It is generally the know-nothings who know it all without knowing that they know it. If you want to win on the turf follow up the galloping girls in blue and do as they do; be a little at a time—the for the better—and when you win make a rip-roaring fuss because you didn't bet the bookmakers to a standstill.

Men who are ready for the public schools of this city must be turned away for lack of accommodations. This evil should be one of the things remedied before another school year comes.

Saturday was a great day for the Cleveland household, the cup-defenders and "The Evening World." But for the last named, the New York public would have been away beholding on the news of the White House baby and wouldn't have got the correct news of the yacht race until Sunday morning. "The Evening World" is a regular winner whenever it comes to trial races with the big news of the day.
